Dr. Cheryl Fraser

International Speaker, Media Psychologist, Television Host, Author

Sharp, frank, and fearless – that’s clinical psychologist and sex therapist Dr. Cheryl Fraser. With a rare combination of academic credibility, humour, straight-talk and effective interventions, Dr. Cheryl is a sought-after seminar leader and media expert. Whether on television (W Networks Personal Development expert, Love coach on the Shopping Bags, Money coach on CBC Marketplace) radio (Dr. Cheryl’s The Love Buzz, The Dr. Cheryl Fraser show, Air America, CBC) or in print (Glow Magazine, Parents Canada, LavaLife, and her forthcoming book, Become Passion: Kill the Soulmate and Save Your Relationship), Dr. Cheryl is known for her ability to cut through to the core of the problem and challenge people to create the passionate change they crave.

As an international speaker, Dr. Cheryl teaches her Become Passion work and the Awakened Lover weekend, her signature intensive three-day relationship bootcamp. This Passionate weekend takes a stale, stuck relationship and creates intimacy, thrill and sensuality, and can turn a Dud to a Stud and a Good Girl into a Goddess. She teaches other motivational and relationship seminars across North America on topics from improvisation to emotional connection and communication, using accelerated learning techniques and a dynamic, interactive training style.

In terms of academic chops, Dr. Cheryl completed her post-doctoral training at the University of California, San Francisco medical school as a Fulbright Scholar. She is a Registered Psychologist with a PhD in psychology from Simon Fraser University, where she won the Dean’s medal as the top Doctoral Candidate in the university and over $100,000 in scholarships and awards. Dr. Cheryl has taught college and university, as well as keeping a busy private practice specializing in sex and couples therapy.

Her diverse life experience includes time spent as an actor and comedian. Dr. Cheryl was a founding member of “Rock, Paper, Scissors”, Vancouver’s pre-eminent sketch comedy and improv troupe, and she was a regular performer with Vancouver Theatresports. She has trained as an actor in Vancouver and San Francisco. Off the stage, she is a dedicated student of Buddhist meditation, having completed a 3-month meditation retreat in winter in an Ontario cabin, with no power or water.

Dr. Cheryl likes to remind folks that although she is a trained “relationship expert,” she is also just another hopeless romantic. Even since her first orgasm (which involved an electric Snoopy toothbrush), and through some epic love stories and love disasters, Dr. Cheryl has confronted the intense, joyful and painful emotions of relationships from I do to divorce and on to Becoming Passion. It is her personal experiences together with her professional expertise that make her trainings and media appearances so accessible and effective.

Over her years of working with couples and singles, Dr. Cheryl repeatedly observed that when we learn to create passionate, respectful, playful Lover relationships something profound happens; we begin to interact with the world in a more passionate, respectful, playful way. As a result, she founded Compassionate Ventures, a company with a vision: To Awaken Humanity, One Lover at a Time.

Sex, relationships, world events and the meaning of life; it’s all fair game with Dr. Cheryl Fraser.
